

Abstract

A high-frequency module has a signal electrode provided on a cut side thereof and arranged to produce no burrs. The module includes a substantially four-sided substrate, a recess at the cut side of the substrate, 5 and a signal electrode at the recess. The signal electrode is isolated from the cut side by an absent distance.